

It is SSRI's philosophy to stay abreast of scientific developments and where possible to contribute our knowledge to the global scientific community. To that end, every effort is made each year for members of the scientific staff to attend conferences related to our fields of research. In this way, not only does the Institute participate in a mutual exchange of ideas with the global biotechnology and medical research community, but actively pursues the forging and development of new relationships with sister organisations abroad, generating the potential for future collaboration. Below is a list of conferences attended by members of the Institute's scientific team.
